

Dhimitër Haxhimihali Acad

Elected 2003

Dhimitër Haxhimihali is a distinguished Albanian chemist and educator known for his long-standing contributions to Industrial Chemistry and Chemical Technology in Albania.

He studied at the D. I. Mendeleev Moscow Chemical Technological Institute from 1957 to 1961 and graduated in Industrial Chemistry from the University of Tirana in 1962. He earned the titles of Candidate of Sciences (1982), Associate Professor (1984), and Professor (1994).

Contact: dhimiterh@yahoo.com

Professional position

- Chairman of the Section of Natural and Technical Sciences at the Academy of Sciences of Albania from 2009 to 2014.
- Lecturer and researcher at the Faculty of Natural Sciences, University of Tirana
- Head of department of Chemical

Key Research & Publications

- Authored numerous articles focused on the acid processing of phosphate raw materials.
- Published research regarding various environmental issues.
- Developed a significant collection of textbooks on Inorganic Chemical Technology used at the University of Tirana from 1971 to 2026.
- Co-authored a Dictionary of Chemistry (1984) and published a bilingual Dictionary of Basic Chemistry Terms (Albanian-English) in 2019.

Key Professional Expertise

- Languages: Proficient in English, Russian, and Italian.